

Faculty Development Program (FDP)

Digital Pedagogy

April 30, 2020 to May 2, 2020

Platform Used: Zoom

A 3-day FDP on Digital Pedagogy: Digital Platforms for Successful Teaching was organised for all Degree College faculty members.

The IQAC- Utthaan organised the FDP along with College CDC member- Research- Professor Dr. Savitri Kulkarni. The resource person was Dr. Rajesh Idani, Quotient Consultancy.

The main objective of the FDP was to orient teachers to various aspects of digital pedagogy. This method will now be extensively used especially during the COVID 19 lockdown where online teaching has become essential. Soon colleges and schools may integrate face-to-face and online teaching and use them as Hybrid teaching pedagogy.

Through the three days, Dr. Rajesh and Dr. Savitri gave an overview of the digital platforms available for teaching-learning, the process of creating and uploading e-content and the ways in which the e-content created can be used as a means of promoting the college or the department.

A total of 49 faculty members along with Principal Dr. Leena Raje participated in the FDP. Each member or a group of teachers were given an assignment to submit a framework of the e-content they wish to develop keeping in mind the four quadrants of developing any content- Topic, Rationale, Flow and Outline.

The FDP was appreciated by all faculty members and the feedback was that more such programs be organised.

The outcome of the FDP was that out of all assignments submitted, 3 projects were selected to create e-content on the basis of their outline submitted. The projects are now in the process of creating the e-content.
